The screenshot shows the 'Details' form for uploading a document. At the top, there are buttons for 'Save', 'Save & Close', and 'Cancel'. A yellow warning box states: 'In consideration of users who do not have the latest Microsoft tools, please refrain from uploading documents with the extensions pptx, xlsx, or docx. Please convert them to older versions or to a pdf file instead. We also ask they you don't use accents in file titles.' The form includes fields for Title, Title Author, Title Date (pre-filled with 30/July/2015), File Type (set to Local File), Select document, File in folder, and Also file in 2nd folder (OPTIONAL). The 'Tags' field is highlighted with a yellow box and includes a 'Select Tags' button. There are radio buttons for 'Show in Latest Documents' (Yes/No) and a Language dropdown menu (set to English). A 'Description' field is at the bottom, with a '[Toggle Editor]' link below it. A 'Quick Links' button is visible on the right side of the page.

Argentina's native forests were estimated to cover more than 31 million hectares by a National Native Forest Inventory completed in 2005. However, between 1995 and 2011, more than four million ha of forests were lost. The rate of this loss is increasing, and in the past decade the deforestation rate amounted to 1.22%. The main deforestation hotspots are in the Parque Chaqueño and Selva Misionera ecosystems in the north; with serious degradation in the Yungas and the Patagonian Andean forests.
